Happy New Year

The start of a new year is a time for fresh starts, renewed resolve and in some cases, do overs.

January is National Reaching Your Full Potential Month and that is only possible if we "get our house in order". Your "house" could be your body, your home, your mind or your career.

As this process unfolds the new year is also a great time to reevaluate your insurance portfolio and we are here to help. A review of your current coverage's can identify possible coverage gaps, bring to light items that you may need to secure coverage for such as jewelry or items that you no longer need to be insuring. Call us soon to schedule your insurance conversation and let us help you reach your full potential.

What You Can do to Lower your Insurance Premium

There are several things to consider that could impact your insurance premiums.

Increasing your deductibles, raising or lowering your liability limits or removing unnecessary coverage just to name a few can affect the premiums that you pay for both auto and home insurance.

An annual insurance review can identify shortfalls in coverage as well as savings options. Call us to schedule your annual insurance conversation and maximize your insurance dollars.

The Savvy Independent

As the new year unfolds the subject of losing weight is always a hot topic. For the past couple of months I have been keeping you abreast of the healthy initiative that Team Landmark began mid October. The holidays certainly created a few bumps in the road as temptations were around every corner and all too often I found myself saying "I was not as good as I should have been, but I was not as bad as I could have been". However, we are back on track as many of us received FITBITS for Christmas. We are now obsessing over the number of steps we walk each day, sending each other challenges and monitoring our sleep patterns. Join us as we make small changes that will hopefully lead to big results.

Our office is also starting the new year with a fresh new look, stop by and see the changes that we are making and let's have a conversation. I look forward to seeing you soon.

Mr. McTidBit

Winter is definitely upon us and with that comes frozen pipes and power outages. I encourage you to take precautions such as maintaining heat in rooms that have plumbing and allowing a small stream of water to flow from faucets during extremely cold spells.

Should a claim arise, maintain good notes as to the date and time it took place as well as a complete list of items that were lost or damaged.

At Landmark we understand that the very reason you purchase insurance is to protect yourself should a claim occur. I am here to stand in the gap and help you navigate the waters when catastrophe strikes. Please don't hesitate to call me should the need arise.
