Mr. McTidBit

We can learn quite a lot from Ebenezer Scrooge about protecting our identities during the busy holiday season! Scrooge was a miserly old guy who guarded his coal, his wealth and his love. The ghosts of Christmas Past, Present and Future scared him into realizing that giving generously are what the holidays (and life) are all about. The lesson they forgot to mention is that as he donated his wealth, paid for Tiny Tim's healthcare and purchased gifts for all of London, he should still be miserly with his personal information!

Consumers will face many hidden threats as they pour into stores for holiday deals and retailers are therefore moving to use more secure technology in an effort to combat fraud.

I would like to give you a few tidbits on how to protect yourself during this buying season. Click the link below to read more ~
